

Pharmaceutical Institute graduate badge, 1970s-80s.

Aluminum, enamels; 46.4 x 26.4 mm. Single-piece construction. The "hot baked" enamels are of high quality, although not quite as nice as on the earlier versions of graduation badges. Raised late style Leningrad Mint logo to the reverse.

Excellent condition. The screw post is full length, over 12 mm. Comes with original mint marked screw plate.

Unlike many other badges for graduates of Soviet higher education establishments, the pharmaceutical school badge apparently did not have the early brass version and only came in aluminum.
