

Government Postal Cover Commemorating the Soyuz-Apollo Space Flight, 1975.

The size is 6 1/4" x 4 1/2", published by the Ministry of Communications of the USSR, circulation unknown. The artwork in the left obverse panel depicts an artist's rendition of the Soviet Flight Control Center during the joint Apollo-Soyuz space flight. The lettering above the graphic reads "Experimental flight of the Soyuz and Apollo spacecraft."

In excellent condition, just microscopic corner bumps.

The historic Apollo-Soyuz space flight, or Test Project, as it was sometimes officially termed, occurred in July 1975, making the first international space flight. Both spacecraft launched on July 15, 1975, with the Soyuz 19 carrying a Soviet crew and the Apollo carrying an American crew, docking in orbit on July 17, 1975.
